Everyone knows the challenge in finding a reliable accountant, and that's why I started Tim Hunter CPA. Whether you need help with personal taxes or with a business, I'm ready to take on all of your tax preparation and accounting demands. Working with me, you can rest assured your financial matters will be handled with care. Contact me today to learn how I can help your business and non-profit. I can even set up your accounting system or simply keep the books for you. I can find a system that will work for you so you can get back to what's important....running your organization.

I began my career as a member of the family business in 1977. I helped operate and manage a custom manufacturing business for over 35 years. In 2012, I decided to go into public accounting to use my knowledge of business to help my clients improve their operations. In 2017, I went into private practice where I continue to help clients by streamlining accounting and bookkeeping procedures so owners can get back to what's important

I volunteer on community boards, church financial committees and in youth/children programs. I am involved in leadership programs and I am committed to working hands on with clients and the community.
